

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

December 26, 2001

I am pleased to send warm greetings to all those observing "One Day of Peace and Sharing."

This celebration represents an opportunity to reflect on our hope for a new year that brings peace, safety, and freedom to all people. During this time of conflict and challenge, we also recognize the important role of individual Americans in defeating hatred and injustice in our communities.

Best wishes for a memorable observance.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "G. W. Bush".